

ASPECTS OF SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT IN UGANDA

edited by

Nicholas Awortwi & Charles Kanyesigye

Cover photos retrieved on 3 December 2008 from www.idrc.ca/uploads/user-S/11200531623KAmpala.bmp <http://cbfportal.files.wordpress.com/2008/07/uganda2-701.jpg>

http://riversphere.blogspot.com/2007_08_01_archive.html

© Copyright Shaker Publishing 2008

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without the prior permission of the publishers.

Printed in The Netherlands.

ISBN 978-90-423-0360-7

Shaker Publishing BV
St. Maartenslaan 26
6221 AX Maastricht
Tel.: 043-3500424
Fax: 043-3255090
http:// www.shaker.nl

Contents

Contributors	v
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction to Aspects of Social Development in Uganda NICHOLAS AWORTWI	1
1 Disability and Income Generation: Reflections on Affirmative Action in Kampala District JIMMY MUGISHA MAGURU	15
2 Questioning the Link Between Poverty and Vulnerability to HIV Infection: Views of Young People in Jinja District PAUL BUKULUKI AND EDDY J. WALAKIRA	53
3 Agency or Choiceless Choice? Women's Responses to Domestic Violence and their Implications for Household Welfare ANNAH KAMUSIIME	76
4 Unbundling Basic Services Provision: A Study of Sub-Saharan Africa with a Special Emphasis on Uganda and Ghana NICHOLAS AWORTWI AND A.H.J. (BERT) HELMSING	105

- 5 Community Action Plans: Does Representative Participation Meet Needs of Poor and Marginalised Groups in Northern Uganda? 142
ERIC AWICH OCHEN
- 6 Promoting Downward Accountability through Decentralisation: Challenges and Prospects for Uganda's Local Governments 181
FIRMINUS MUGUMYA, ERIC AWICH OCHEN, ALFRED TWINAMATSIKO AND RONARD MUKUYE

Contributors

Nicholas Awortwi (PhD) is Senior Lecturer in Development Management at Institute of Social Studies, The Hague. He is also a visiting lecturer at F.H.R. Lim A Po Master of Public Administration & Governance, Paramaribo in Suriname. His teaching and research areas are in public sector reform, governance and the private sector, governance of basic services provision, decentralisation and local governance, and municipal governance and management. He is currently the leader of ISS capacity-building projects in Mozambique and Uganda, which are financed by the Netherlands government through Nuffic. Contact: awortwi@iss.nl

A.H.J. (Bert) Helmsing (PhD) is Professor of Local & Regional Development at Institute of Social Studies, The Hague. He has taught in the Department of Rural & Urban Planning at University of Zimbabwe (1985-89) and Universidad de los Andes, Bogota, Colombia (1976-80). His teaching and research are in the areas of small enterprise development, local economic development, and local government finance and planning. He has researched these topics in Africa and Latin America and published his findings in international journals. Contact: helmsing@iss.nl

Eddy J. Walakira is Lecturer in the Faculty of Social Sciences at Makerere University, Uganda. His research work is in the area of children and youth, child labour and HIV/AIDS. He holds a Masters degree in Employment and Human Resources and a postgraduate diploma in Children and Youth in Development, both from the Institute of Social Studies, The Hague. Eddy is currently finalising his PhD studies at Vienna University. Contact: ewalakira@ss.mak.ac.ug

Paul Bukuluki is a medical anthropologist and Lecturer in the Faculty of Social Sciences at Makerere University, Uganda. He is also a visiting lecturer at the Ethnomedicine Unit, Institute of Public Health, Medical University of Vienna. His teaching and research areas are in research methodology, planning and management of social service delivery systems, social and behavioural aspects of HIV/AIDS and social security for orphans and vulnerable children. He is currently the team leader of an action research project on the relationship between gender, food security and HIV/AIDS in internally displaced people's camps in Northern Uganda funded by the International Food Policy Research Institute. Contact: pbukuluki@ss.mak.ac.ug

Jimmy Mugisha Maguru is Lecturer in Social Research and Community Based Rehabilitation at Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development, Mpigi, Uganda. His teaching areas also include Sociology of Crime and Deviance, Introduction to Scholarly Writing and Community Based Health Care. His research areas are Disability and Empowerment, Public Health, Community Development and Education. He has been the Dean of Students and is currently the Research Officer. Contact: jimmymaguru@yahoo.co.uk

Annah Kamusiime is Lecturer in Gender and Development and Public Policy and Administration at Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development, Mpigi, Uganda. Her teaching areas also include Management of Microfinance, Sociology of Crime and Deviance and Social Sector Financing and Budgeting. Her research areas are in Gender and Public Policy Formulation. Contact: annahkamusiime@yahoo.co.uk

Firminus Mugumya is Assistant Lecturer in the Department of Social Work and Social Administration, Faculty of Social Sciences, Makerere University, Uganda. His teaching and research areas are Local Governance, Decentralised Service Delivery, Urban Development and Services Delivery, and HIV/AIDS and its associated vulnerabilities in resource-poor communities. Contact: firm@ss.mak.ac.ug

Eric Awich Ochen is an Assistant Lecturer in the Faculty of Social Sciences at Makerere University, Uganda, and is currently pursuing doctoral studies at Huddersfield University, United Kingdom. His main research areas revolve around rural/urban livelihoods. Contact: eaochen@ss.mak.ac.ug.

Alfred Twinamatsiko is currently a PhD student at the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium. He has taught at Makerere University for more than six years. He is currently a Senior Lecturer at Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development, Mpigi, Uganda. His teaching and research areas are good governance promotion, state-civil society partnerships and local governance modernisation. Contact: atwinamatsiko@yahoo.com

Ronard Mukuye is currently working as Assistant Lecturer in the Department of Adult Education and Communication Studies, Institute of Adult and Continuing Education, Makerere University. He teaches Research Methodology and Sociological Foundations of Adult and Community Education. His main research and teaching areas include poverty alleviation, local governance, gender and disability, and urban development. Contact: ronardm@ss.mak.ac.ug

Charles Kanyesigye holds an MA in Development Studies from Uganda Martyrs University and a BA in Social Sciences from Makerere University. He is undertaking PhD studies at Cambridge Management Institute, UK, and is currently the acting Principal of Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development, Mpigi, Uganda. Contact: kanyesigyecharles@yahoo.com

Dancun Kalule is Vice-Principal of Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development, Mpigi, Uganda. He is the Coordinator of the BA (Social Development) programme at the Institute. He is currently pursuing a PhD programme and doing research in the areas of Good Governance, Quality Assurance and Entrepreneurship Development. Contact: nsamizi_institute@yahoo.com

Acknowledgements

This volume is the outcome of a capacity-building programme in research that was funded by the Netherlands Organisation for International Cooperation in Higher Education (Nuffic) and executed by the Institute of Social Studies (ISS), The Hague. The objective was to nurture young lecturers at Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development (NTISD) to undertake research with the aim of publishing their findings. The research programme was part of a larger project to build the capacity of NTISD to train local government personnel in community mobilisation and social development skills so as to enhance poverty eradication programmes in Uganda. Normally, people would judge the outcome of the research and not the process, but considering the enormous amount of effort that culminated in the publication this collection of research papers, we are very grateful to all the contributors, for many of whom it was the first time they had been subjected to rigorous academic research procedures for the purpose of publication.

We would like to express our gratitude to Nuffic for providing the financial support to build the capacity of a young and promising training institution in Uganda. The difference between NTISD today and the one ISS saw in 2004 is clear testimony of what a committed organisation can do with a little aid money. Our appreciation also goes to Dr. David Kyadondo of Makerere University and Dr. Florence Nangendo of Uganda Martyrs University for facilitating some of the research-training workshops in Kampala, and Dr. Erhard Berner of ISS for reading the papers and providing useful written and oral comments during the research seminar series.

In the later part of the research programme, Jimmy Mugisha of NTISD assumed responsibility for coordinating the local researchers in the absence of senior researchers. Our special thanks go to him and to Gracette Taaka, who provided prompt secretarial services to the researchers, as well as to project managers in the Netherlands. Amin Kassam and Joy Misa edited and formatted the manuscript respectively. We are very thankful to them for their meticulous work.

Nicholas Awortwi

Institute of Social Studies
The Hague, Netherlands

Charles Kanyesigye

Nsamizi Training Institute of Social Development
Mpigi, Uganda