Preface

A project of this magnitude is impossible to accomplish without the support of numerous persons and institutions. First and foremost, I would like to thank my supervisor, Helmut Dietl, for endowing me with the possibility to pursuing my dissertation at his chair. His constant interest and the numerous discussions with him substantially shaped this thesis. Additionally, the sport recap discussions helped keeping an optimal working environment which is very important for a successful completion of any project. The same holds true for my co-supervisor, Egon Franck, who showed a great amount of support.

But not only for his advice for this book, also for his patience and motivation during my course phase at the Swiss National Bank's Study Center Gerzensee I would thank my supervisor. I am as well deeply indebted to the faculty and academic staff of the Study Center Gerzensee. I am grateful to Sandra Hanslin, Sarah Lein, Thomas Maag, and Klaus Werner who joined with me the "Swiss Programm for Beginning Doctoral Students" and helped me surviving very rough, busy and stressful times, especially the time before the final exams.

For valuable comments regarding the dissertation, I am grateful to Markus Lang, Urs Trinkner, Stephan Werner, and Tariq Hasan. Your help is very much appreciated. A special thank goes to Martin Grossmann, who supported me with very helpful comments and helped me integrating in Switzerland.

This dissertation was conducted in the context of the research project "The Effect of Regulation on Innovation in the Postal Sector" and financed by the Swiss National Fund. I am grateful for this financial support

Most importantly, this dissertation would not have been possible without the emotional and social support of my friends and family. Thank to the F4 - crew Khri, Alex, and father smurf who provided me a ready source of respite and strength. Furthermore I want to extend my gratitude to all persons who helped to keep my work-life-balance, especially to the "Züri-Velo-Team", the "IOU-Poker-Masters" and the "Schwäbsch-Football-Supporters".

Finally I thank my mother Richarda Lutzenberger. She always supported, encouraged and cared for me no matter what I have chosen to do.
