International Series in Mental Health and Religion

published in collaboration with

KSGV

KSGV is an independent Dutch association that aims to explore the relationships between faith/religion/meaning and mental health.

To this end, KSGV endeavours to inspire a scientific investigation of and reflection on current religious issues in mental healthcare and in society. It pursues a critical discernment regarding a mentally healthy approach of religion and meaningmaking.

KSGV issues publications since 1952.

Acknowledgements

For the realisation of this volume, support was needed. We would like to thank the KSGV, a Dutch association for the scientific exploration of the relationships between religion and mental health, for sponsoring this project. Valued research assistance has been provided by three master students in Humanities: Els Beimers, Maria Brak and Aafke Lettinga. We thank them for their commitment.

We also want to thank Prof Dr Joseph Pieper and Prof Dr Arjan Braam for their feedback on an earlier draft of the text. Finally we thank Drs Ad van Heeswijk, C.Psychol., Clinical Psychologist and Psychotherapist, Earl Mountbatten Hospice, Newport, Isle of Wight, Great Britain, for translating the text of this volume.
