"I can no other answer make, but, thanks, and thanks, and ever thanks"

W. Shakespeare, Twelfth Night (Act III Scene 3)

My friends know that this project would not be finished without having quoted William Shakespeare at least once. And how appropriate this very quotation is! The present publication as well as the project behind it would not have been possible without the support from many people, and it is to these people I extend my warmest thanks.

My first and deepest thanks go to my family. My parents have made all this possible. Not only by financial support throughout my studies but by morally supporting and believing in me, in good times and in bad. Thank you! The strongest support came from Dominik who kept me going when times were rough. Without him, this study might never have been finished. Thank you for being there and for tireless encouragement.

I thank Prof. Dr. Thomas Dyllick for the supervision of this thesis. He provided surroundings in which I was able to follow my ideas freely, and he was always there for discussions. I would also like to express my thanks to Prof. Dr. Winfried Ruigrok for the acceptance of co-supervising my thesis as well and sympathetic ear and valuable comments. Thanks go to Prof. Dr. John Bennett as well, who accepted the task of checking my thesis for language (which is the custom at the university with theses written in languages other than German).

During my research stay in London, Andy Gouldson (LSE) did not only find me a roof over my head through his private "accommodation network" but also gave his time and knowledge in fruitful discussions. Thank you! Financial support for this research stay I owe to the Swiss National Fund (SNF).

Many people contributed to this thesis by giving their time and knowledge in the interviews I conducted. I am very grateful to all of them. In particular, I would like to thank Brigitte Olbrich (Unilever) and Rainer Rauberger (Henkel), who enabled me to conduct interviews at production sites of their companies in Germany, Great Britain, and Sweden.

Several people read drafts and chapters of my thesis and I would like to extend my thanks to them: Sabine Bentz, who shared the office with me for over four years. I cannot imagine having had a more understanding, inspiring, and fun colleague at her place. Eva Klement, who came later and left earlier but we shared intense time together, suffering through the different stages of our theses in unity. Kerstin Pichel was there already and I thank her not only for her conscientiously thought-out criticism on ideas, drafts, and chapters, but also for boosting my morale when I needed it. Dirk Funck was far away but gave time and his analytical eye, providing profound comments, which pushed my work significantly. Despite averse conditions, Helga Kanning also read a chapter and made valuable comments – thank you!

Last but certainly not least, I thank Doris Hoewel and Victor Porak for kindly receiving me into their home and making my time in St. Gallen most agreeable.
